BANGOR WHIG.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1839.

N. M. LOMBARD,
POSTMASTER,
NORTH SCPIO,
YORK

There are some men to whom we think it right to give notoriety, that their treatment may be a warning to other "frail creatures" to avoid their contemptible conduct. We have therefore, placed the name above in a conspicuous position, and typical of what we are compelled to believe his moral qualities.

"An inverted case, wanting its proper base to rest upon."

The following correspondence will clearly set forth the reasons that have induced us to take this course. We have had experience enough of the lack of honesty among men of the want of principle, and the mean and various attempts that are made to get rid of paying newspaper bills; but in all our experience, we do not recollect a more glaring display of insult added to injury, never a more striking case of official ignorance and impudence. If Amos Kendall elevates and sustains in office such men as the creature above named, there is no safety in the Post Office Department, and it is vastly more corrupt and rotten than we have ever yet imagined it to be.

The first knowledge we recollect to have had of this Lombard, was a letter without any money enclosed, requesting us to send him our paper for one year. Believing him to be an honest man, his name was added to our list, and the paper forwarded about six months, when one number was returned with the following written upon the margin, and signed thus:

"Don't send me no more of this Dam Whig papers."

N. M. LOMBARD;

North Scpio."

Upon the receipt of this eloquent letter, from a "Democratic" Postmaster, we directed the following letter to be forwarded:

"Bangor, August 26, 1839.
Sir. The 23d day of last March we received the following letter:"

"North Scpio, March 16, 1839.
Dear Sir. I wish you to send me one copy of your paper for one year, and oblige a friend.

N. M. LOMBARD, P. M."

We consequently have continued to send you the Bangor Courier ever since, and this morning we received a No. of the Courier which you have returned to us, and the following cheast and grammatical endorsement upon it, viz:

"Send me no more of this Dam Whig papers."

N. M. LOMBARD, P. M."

Now Sir, as you have ordered the paper for one year, we shall wait the proper time for an answer from you, and if you send us the amount for the paper for one year, (good current money A.) which is $2.00, we will say no more; but if not, we have determined to let the public know what a precious Procrustean-Ken" he has at North Scpio, and shall publish your letter and your note in the paper, and strike off some extra copies for the use of some of your good people in N. Scpio, and your friends at Washington and elsewhere." We await your answer, and in the interim remain,

Yours,

EDWARDS & SMITH.

By Geo. W. Snow.

We have given a plenty of time for the letter to be answered, but not a word has been received, nor has the bill been paid, and we have thus endeavored to redeem the promise we made him.

CATTLE SHOW.

Our friends from the city are invited to attend the anniversary of the Penobscot Agricultural Society on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Preparations are making by Mr. Shaw and others, for the accomodation of a large number, and it is hoped that all who feel interested in promoting one of the best of causes, will find it convenient to attend. The exhibition of stock produce, &c. will take place on Wednesday probably, as also the business meeting of the Society. On Thursday the ploughing match will come off in the forenoon, and the address in the afternoon, and it is expected that there will be a public meeting on Wednesday evening for the free discussion of the subject of agriculture. If any other inducement is necessary, it may be said that the Soc. much to their pride, have selected a place for exhibition, where no ardent spirits are sold, being desirous that nothing should prevent the attendance of gentlemen and ladies, on the score of noise and confusion.

EXETER.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The committee appointed to draft a Constitution reported the same last evening, which was accepted, and the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year.

Hon. WARREN PRESTON, President.

CHARLES FRENCH, Esq., Vice President.

Mr. W. B. HARLOW, Secretary.

Mr. GEO. R. SMITH, Treasurer.

El. H. Hamblin, Esq.

Dr. J. Brastow,

J. S. Baynard, Esq.

Doct. J. P. Dickinson,

Mr. Isaac S. Whitman,

Mr. A. B. Converse,

Mr. Samuel H. Dale,

GARTERS. The pernicious tendency of wearing garters is thus noticed by the New York Sun. Very few persons, says that paper, have any idea of the mischief that is attendant upon their carelessness. Though their use be sanctioned by fashion and custom, it is not without its dangers whether above or below the knee. The parts compressed by them acquire an unnatural hardness, and increased fatigue is produced upon every exertion of the legs. Drop off of the legs and thighs, also, frequently arises from the unaccustomed nature of the garter, and hence arises many stumbled, dislocations and injuries of the knee, hand, and foot.

NOTICE. In the Illinois papers of the 18th of August, it is known that Mr. Richard Laird Shell was, by command of the Queen, sworn by her Majesty's Privy Council, and took his place at the Board. The Right Hon. P. Thompson, Cap-

SCISSORS.

The Pennsylvania State loan of two millions and four thousand dollars for internal improvement purposes, was undertaken by the United States Bank - on account states at five per cent per annum. The total indebtedness is in all parts of Great Britain now, about nine hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Clay arrived at Maysville on the 8th instant, and left on the following day for his residence at Ashland, he was in firm health and spirits. The German town Telegraph says, there is a tremendous pressure throughout Pennsylvania just now; the poor bares groan under the loads which they are obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking. Mr. Prentiss has commenced the canvass in Mississippi for United States Senator. His speech in Raymond was a brilliant effort. If you are angry with him who reproves your sin, you secretly confess your anger to be unjust - he that is angry with the just reprobate, kindles the fire of the just Avenger. It is easier to pardon the faults than the virtues of our friends, because the first excite in us self-complacency always agreeable, and the second a sense of humiliation which makes us like the inflictor. Happiness consists in a virtuous and honest life, in being content with a competency of outward things, and in using them temperately. The Honorable Charles A. Wickliffe, Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, took the oath and entered upon the duties of Chief Magistrate of the State, on the 5th instant, in consequence of the death of Governor Clark. The number of steerage passengers that have arrived at New York from European ports, from the first to the fifth instant inclusive, is two thousand one hundred and forty one, of this number one thousand six hundred and fifty seven arrived from London. From July 5th to September 2d of this year, the specie in the banks of Rhode Island has been increased near five millions, and the circulation decreased six and a half millions.

At the Westbrook Seminary, situated about three miles from Portland, in a pleasant and healthy position, is to be revived under the charge of Mr. JAMES FURKIN, a gentleman who is well qualified for the station, being a sound scholar, thoroughly acquainted with the languages, and possessing a peculiar tact for instruction. Success to him and his school.

Among the convicts, eleven in number, who were sent to Sing Sing Prison last week, there, to drag out a miserable existence, was a man by the name of Smith Davis, convicted of forgery, in putting into circulation an immense quantity of forged counterfeit money, which business he has practiced with great success for the last twelve or fifteen years. He is represented as a man of great appearance and address, and pleasing and prepossessing manners, and had an amiable wife and a fine family of six interesting children who had been well taken care of and educated, as far as their tender minds were susceptible of literary instruction. Previous to his departure, his wife and children were admitted into his cell to take a final adieu, an eternal farewell of the husband and father. The New York Sun gives the following picture of the scene: "The scene was one of the most painful and affecting that can be imagined. The wife and children of the convict hung upon his neck and poured out their sighs and tears and groans in his bosom, which mingled with those for the last time, with the burning drops of a father and a husband, which he shed. For a while the whole group were incapable of utterance, grief and overwhelming emotion checked the power of speech. After a time, when affection had fed itself with conjugal and paternal endearments, and grief had emptied its fountains of tears, the wife and children, with screams and convulsive sobs, departed, and left the convict to his fate. Yesterday morning early, one of the prisoner's children, impelled by affection for its father, pressed its way into prison again, and took another painful and affecting adieu of its father. He wept until his face and bosom were wet with tears, and finally took the parting hand of his child, and with his iron on followed his conductors to the boat which was to convey him and his companions in crime to a living death. Such is the unhappy fate of the criminal. He sunders all the sweetest and dearest ties of life for the glittering bauble, gain, and consigns himself to an ignominious prison, excluded from wife, children and friends, a wretched outcast from the world. Let this serve to teach others, who are now running a career of crime, to pause in their cruel course, before it is too late."

CHANGES IN THE BRITISH MINISTRY.

Mr. F. Baring by command of the Queen was sworn as a member of the Privy Council (Aug. 26) and took his seat at the Board. Mr. Baring also received the seal of office, and had the honor to kiss hands on being appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer. On the 29th, Lord Howick tendered his resignation to her Majesty as Secretary of War, and the resignation was accepted. In consequence of this movement, Mr. Wood, a relation of Lord Howick, resigned the office of under secretary of the admiralty.

In the House of Commons, on the 27th, new writs were ordered for Tipperary in the room of Mr. Sheil, who has accepted the office of Vice-President of the Board of Trade, and for Manchester, in the room of Mr. P. Thomann, who has accepted the office of Governor-General of Canada.

The Globe of August 30th, announces on authority, that the Marquis of Normanby will leave the Colonial office for the Home Department, and that Lord John Russell retires from the Home Office, and will succeed the Marquis of Normanby as Colonial Secretary. The Morning Post of September 2d, contains a column of severe remarks upon the interchange of offices.

Another event and issue of Mr. H. - was held on the 26th, at which Mr. Richard Laird Shell was, by command of the Queen, sworn by her Majesty's Privy Council, and took his place at the Board. The Right Hon. P. Thompson, Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of the Canadas, took the usual oaths of the governors of the colonies.

The Pig's Wig takes out a Quaker the new Governor General of Canada with his suite.

SPAIN.

The Carlist rebellion seems to be drawing to a close. Gen. O'Donnell has gained important success over Cabrera in Valencia. His last exploit was the capture of the fort of Tarragona, after a battle with the Carlists which was kept up for 16 hours. He demolished the fortifications, and then returned to Valencia.

TEN DAYS LATER FROM CANTON.

At Canton affairs remained in the same unsatisfactory state. Foreigners were all prisoners, and business, of course, at an end, at all events for the present. All communication between Canton and Macao had been cut off, and the ships were lying in Macao Roads, waiting the result of the Commissioners' proceedings. About one-half of the opium had been delivered up at Lintin, and it was expected the delivery would be completed by the end of April. It was believed that the Admiral, who had concentrated his whole force at Trincomalee, only waited fresh orders to proceed to Canton.

The Singapore papers of the 23d of May mention, that the Siamese authorities, in imitation of the Chinese, had imposed a tax on opium, constructiveness, caution, language, individuality, evanescence, causality, order, average.

At Antwerp, arquebuses, identity, marchion, induction, one, weight, color, location, no time, true moderate and small.

The head is well formed, and such as a physiologist admires. The coronal region being the largest, the frontal and occipital nearly balanced, and the buccal moderate. In fact, such an African head is seldom to be seen, and doubtless in other circumstances, would have been an honor to his race. Such a head, and such opinions as these to be expressed on a murderer and a pirate will no doubt be very satisfactory to those who are interested in opposing phrenology; but he has acted in accordance with his organization, and is a perfect illustration of the truth of the science.

A slight consideration of the case will explain. A young man in the midst of happiness and power, (for he is not a plebian in his own country) is born from his home, his relatives and friends, all of whom he dearly loves (inhabitiveness and adhesiveness being large) he suffers the misery of a long voyage in a slave ship, is landed only to be sold and shipped again, he finds himself among fifty of his own race, and only five or six white men by destroying them he saves himself and his unfortunate companions from misery and slavery, with a fair prospect of returning to his native land. (Hope very large, and caution moderate) he organizes and leads the attack (self-esteem and firmness very large) he strikes the first blow. Under these circumstances the "science" does not need large destructiveness. We know that the timid mother is excited to superhuman courage to save her infant from danger, so may the moderate destructiveness of the abused African be excited to unwanted energy by the suffering he has endured, and the ecstasy of hope of freedom, and return to his happy home.

Two of the race of their persecutors are permitted to live it is stated, for the purpose of navigating the vessel (but it is only one of them that understands navigation) they are frequently threatened with death if they do not conduct the ship to Africa, if they do their lives are to be spared. The negroes discover they are deceived, and themselves on the coast of their bitterest enemy the white man, they again threaten death, but that benevolence which permitted the white man to live so long in their power, still withheld the execution of their threat - who under similar circumstances, would have shown more forbearance? They had the power in their numbers to do much more injury, both on land and on water, but they have committed no further depredations, no further brutalities, clearly showing that the moral sentiments predominated in their leader.

It has been stated that Cingues exercised much cruelty towards some of his own people. The same faculties which made him their leader gave him a determination to enforce authority, and some severity was doubtless necessary among a crew of forty or fifty, being suddenly emancipated from four to six months bondage. All good generals have been strict disciplinarians, but they were not necessarily wanting in benevolence. All but physicians would wonder how he governed them at all his organization alone explains it. Superior intellectual faculties, with large firmness and self-esteem, and yet he is madly loved by all another proof of his large benevolence, for never was man loved by his fellows who was deficient in this faculty.

[From the Albany Evening Advertiser.]

How is this? The Hon. N. P. TALLMADGE, in attendance upon the Tinga Court of Common Pleas, last week, was invited to address a Whig Convention then meeting in Owego. The Senator was listened to, for two hours, by a large concourse of citizens. The Editor of the Owego Advertiser says that "no sketch can do justice to the speech. It was the production of a great mind, deeply imbued with the principles of our Constitution, and anxious to avert the calamities which he clearly showed must result from the measures of Mr. Van Buren." But we ask particular attention to the following exposition:

"In his speech on Wednesday night, Mr. Tallmadge stated the fact, that previous to the extra session of Congress in Sept. 1837, Gov. Marcy called on him, at his residence in Poughkeepsie, and urged him to oppose the Sub-Treasury scheme. The Senator was listened to, for two hours, by a large concourse of citizens. But we ask particular attention to the following exposition:

"In his speech on Wednesday night, Mr. Tallmadge stated the fact, that previous to the extra session of Congress in Sept. 1837, Gov. Marcy called on him, at his residence in Poughkeepsie, and urged him to oppose the Sub-Treasury scheme. The Senator was listened to, for two hours, by a large concourse of citizens. The Editor of the Owego Advertiser says that "no sketch can do justice to the speech. It was the production of a great mind, deeply imbued with the principles of our Constitution, and anxious to avert the calamities which he clearly showed must result from the measures of Mr. Van Buren."
